AARP members enjoy February fellowship

President Richard Dahlgren made an important announcement at the opening of the February meeting of AARP. A new law states that veterans are now allowed and expected to salute the flag even if not in uniform. Many of the chapter's members are veterans, and proudly saluted Old Glory during the opening ceremonies. Buffalo's AARP members then shared a potluck dinner and enjoyed a game of February trivia organized by Vice President

The business end of the meeting included reports by Secretary Nadine Lennox and Treasurer Sue Glass, and both ladies kept things light with humorous anecdotes. There were also reports on the work of the Lord's Pantry and the Leon County Community Coalition.

Celebrations included the birthday of Sue Glass and the anniversary of Norma Threet.

the quarterly investment report and the school tax collection status. As of January 31 approximately 88% of current taxes have been collected. The investment report was approved.

The Policy Update #84 was discussed and approved. This update addresses a variety of topics, including student instructional issues affected by the Commissioner of Education rules, as well as redeveloped policies on special education, student transportation, disposal of district property, and student use of telecommunication and other electronic devices.

A shared services arrangement agreement with Brazos Valley Regional School for the Deaf was approved. Centerville ISD would be responsible for transportation and special education funds would likely cover the costs. The District currently has no students who attend the school.

Mrs. Nichols explained that, even with the extremely dry weather, the football field is wet and soggy. Larry Rider of 4E SportsFields has contacted Texas A&M as well as other specialists to try to solve the problem. He has taken soil samples and suggested an irrigation audit.

Nichols informed the board of the resignation of Clare Robertson, elementary counselor. Mrs. Robertson is resigning to take a position as counselor at the Ferguson Unit of Texas Department of Criminal Justice.
